BROAD STREET IN WRETCHED SHAPE

But Consulting Engineer Trafford Says City Will Not Lose.

CONTRACTOR MUST REPAVE

Twenty Cents Per Foot Is Being Deducted by City From Pay Checks.

Although admitting that Broad Street is in a wretched condition, almost impassable in places, Consulting Engineer Trafford, who is supervising construction of the new municipal electric plant, says that the city will lose nothing through the character of paving being laid on that thoroughfare in covering the trenches dug for underground electric conduits.

"The contractor, the McKay Engineering Company, fully understands," said Mr. Trafford yesterday, "that as soon as the trenches have been settled the surface will have to be repaved. The work done so far having been only temporary, after consulting with City Engineer Bolling, we have deducted from every voucher paid the McKay Company 20 cents per lineal foot to save the city in case the contractor should fail to properly repave the street paving." Mr. Trafford exhibited his estimate on which the last voucher for payment was based, showing a reservation on account of $1,100 for 5,600 feet of trenches covered in that voucher.

City Fully Protected.
In addition, Mr. Trafford stated that the city was still further protected by a bond given by the contractor to keep the street in order, and repave over any sinks for a period of one year from completion of the work.

He said that he was only waiting for word from the City Engineer that the trenches had sufficiently settled to instruct the contractor to lay the final paving, which, by the way, the contract specifies must be laid "to the satisfaction of the City Engineer," making it apparently necessary for the street to be put back into condition satisfactory to Mr. Bolling before the final payment can be authorized.

Mr. Trafford, Mr. Bolling and all other engineers and most laymen who have looked over Broad Street recently, agree that it is in a mess, and the pity of it is that it will probably remain so for some time, for the work of digging it up is not half done. Last year the Street Committee laid a deep sewer along the south side of Broad Street, to drain the cellars of stores. Many merchants failed to make connections as the sewer was being built, and the street was opened from time to time for that purpose.

Much More Work to Be Done.
The reason for the delay over the trenches being cut for underground conduits for the electric plant—a part of the scheme for the ornamental lighting of Broad Street. In addition, to the present trench being cut along the south side of Broad, the contract calls for a similar underground conduit along the north side, work on which will begin in the next week or two, from Adams to Twelfth Street.

Then the deep sewer necessary for proper drainage is yet to be laid on the north side of Broad, only one block between Second and Third, having been laid when funds available gave out.

While urgently recommended by the Street Committee, this work is indefinitely delayed until there is a special appropriation. City Engineer Bolling has urged recommended that no steps be taken for smooth paving the street until all this cutting under the surface has been completed. He told the Street Committee that it would be several years before the street would be paved with brick or concrete, and to have it cut to pieces a few months later. Meanwhile, each cutting has left its imprint, which is a mass of ricks and valleys in which dust and dirt collect in dry weather and puddles of water in the showpots stand after rains. Not only this, but the contractor for the electric plant utterly failed to relay the paving as he found it, but the same can be said of the contractor for the deep sewer, and the Department of the Gas and Water.

Lights for Christmas.
As for the electric plant, Engineer Trafford says that if all goes well the ornamental lights will which will be for their Christmas shopping. The power house proper is within six weeks of completion, and only the failure of the Southern Plumbing and Electric Company, one of the minor contractors, has kept it back so long.

The last section of the dam in the river is now being constructed. Despite the criticisms of the manner of its work, rapid progress is being made by the McKay Company in the underground district. Practically nothing, however, has been done on the overhead contractors, Storms & Company, of Newark. The Committee on Electricity and Engineer Trafford have notified the Newark concern time and again that it would be expected to live up to contract, but not a pole has yet been set in the ground, though several carloads are here, and not an overhead wire has been strung. The ornamental iron poles for Broad Street are due for delivery October 1, and Mr. Trafford now hopes to cut in the entire plant early in November, by which time the transmission line to the new pump house will be ready. The water pumps, to be driven by electric power, are already in place, and will be put into use as soon as the power house is ready.

Put Up to Police Department.
As to the repaving of the trenches on Broad, Main, Eighth, Ninth, Bank and other streets, City Engineer Bolling has notified the contractor that the paving is not satisfactory, and has been assured that the street will be properly restored. He holds that it is entirely in the province of the Police Department to report the contractor to the Police Court for maintaining a nuisance on Broad Street, for the light obstructions, or to provide for light obstructions, or to provide proper crossing and walkways as required by city ordinance.

WALTER BELT IN LIMELIGHT AGAIN

Tried to Hang Himself in Second Station After Arrest for Robbery.

HAD VERY NARROW ESCAPE

Officer Pond Found Him, and Quick Call Brought Him Down in Time.

Rather than stand trial on a charge of stealing, Walter Belt, twenty-one years old, a clerk, of 21 South Pine Street, attempted to hang himself last night about 10:30 o'clock in a cell at the Second Police Station with a small leather belt which he took from his waist. When discovered by Officer Pond he was all but unconscious.

Belt was locked up early in the evening on a charge of stealing a pistol valued at $15 from D. M. Anderson. One friend of Belt came to the station to see him, but refused or failed to bail him. A short time after the friend left the prisoner tried to kill himself.

Cut Down by Purdle.
Officer Pond was passing through the cell room when he saw Belt hanging, with his belt tied around his neck and to the top of the door. The officer ran for the keys, shouting to Sergeant Tyler and Justice Purdie of his discovery. Justice Purdie cut the strap, and the semi-conscious man crumpled in a heap upon the floor. After a few minutes of work by the officers Belt opened his eyes. If he had suspended himself longer he would have been dead.

In discussing the attempt on his life, Belt said: "I have always had a good name, but got in a little trouble. None of my friends would bail me out, although I was doing well in several houses, which I sold him, and I know he could have gone on my bond. 'If they would not bail me out I thought I would give them a chance to pay my funeral expenses. It wasn't my fault, I was doing well, and I didn't want to be disgraced and determined to die rather than stand trial.'

Not Worried at First.
When arrested by Officers Sheppard and Bailey, Belt did not seem to be worried. He told his friend visited him in his cell and then failed to furnish bond the prisoner appeared to realize that he was in a predicament.

Sergeant Tyler placed a fellow-prisoner in Belt's cell to keep watch on him, although he did not want to. Belt became very angry, and paid his respects to his guardian, and demanded that the man be removed from his cell, but the police decided not to take another chance with him. He came into possession of several thousand dollars by inheritance, so the police claim, but he has spent his substance in fast living until he has little left.

He figured rather extensively in the newspapers some months after an escape in Cincinnati, where he got an orphan rating as a millionaire. Again a few weeks later he came into the limelight.

BROKE WOODEN LEG

People Called Ambulance, When Carpenter Was Needed.

It isn't often that the ambulance from the City Home is called to render aid to a man who has broken his leg. That is what happened last night at 11:45 o'clock, however.

R. H. Dabney, colored, of 318 Lodge Street, while making his way along the slippery pavement on Broad Street, near Eighth, fell and broke his wooden leg. His wife, who was with him, who some one telephoned for the ambulance. Dr. Hazen responded.

The physician leaped from the ambulance and ran into the store with his instrument case in his hand. He found Dabney sitting on a chair with his broken leg in his hand. The man said he wanted to be taken to his home; that he was not injured. The obliging physician agreed to this, and Dabney was taken home.

Building Permits.
Building permits were issued yesterday as follows:

Walter L. Smith, to erect a detached two-story frame dwelling, on the south side of Twentieth Street, between Stoneval and Sprink Hill Streets. South Richmond, $1,300.

John G. Scott, executor of William H. Scott, to repair a brick dwelling, 102 East Franklin Street, to cost $217.

John G. Scott, to repair a brick building, 1008 West Grace Street, to be used as a nurses' home for St. Luke's Hospital, to cost $700.

SHEWEY REPORTED TO HAVE RESIGNED

Case of Militia Captain May Be Disposed Of By His Withdrawal.

Some of the local militia officers now believe that the case of Captain Charles Shewey, of Staunton, who has been relieved of the command of Company K, First Virginia Infantry, will be disposed of by the acceptance of his resignation from the service of the Virginia volunteers.

This was indicated by the reported action of Captain Shewey in resigning his commission. This resignation will go first to Colonel W. J. Perry, then to General C. C. Vaughan, and then to the Adjutant-General.

The regulations of the Virginia Volunteers will allow the resignation of an officer while he is under technical arrest, or while charges are hanging over him. But it is understood that no charges have as yet been made. Certainly none have reached the Adjutant-General. Captain Shewey was simply relieved from command of his company.

The theory is that there will be no charges; that the resignation will be endorsed and put through regular military channels for acceptance, and that the incident will be closed without a trial and without further publicity. This, of course, is merely conjecture, as nothing official is known.

WANT BROOKINGS TO FLY AT FAIR

Directors Decline to Sign Aeroplane Contract for Unknown Aviator.

SEEK THE BEST OR NOTHING

Wright Agent Explains What Others Have Done—May Sign To-Day.

The best or nothing is the motto of the Virginia State Fair in regard to aeroplanes. Negotiations continued yesterday between Thomas P. Jackson, special representative of the Wright brothers, and the executive committee of the board of directors of the Fair Association, but without final agreement. Not content with the guarantee of a Wright machine, one that both can and has made flights of world-wide interest, the directors insist on the guarantee that an aviator of known ability who himself holds a world record, shall be sent here.

The fair people are taking no chance of a repetition of the fiasco of last year, when both the association and the public were disgusted with the delicate little hops made about the field by Willard in a Curtiss machine.

What Contract Calls For.

Mr. Jackson, in conference with the executive committee yesterday, offered to make a written contract guaranteeing a Wright machine for the Fair. The contract will make daily flights of from 25 to 500 feet in height; that will stay in the air at least ten minutes at a time, or not call it a flight; that will take up some local man as a passenger on at least one day; and that will make a five-mile race with a local automobile around the race track, making the turns at the speed of a racing motor car, and staying in the air for the whole time of the race, which will be a size sufficient to attract some of the best motor car drivers in the State.

Not content with this contract, which is backed by the prestige and standing of the Wright brothers and the stock company which is giving them financial assistance, the executive committee of the Fair Association sought to add the condition that Walter Brookings, holder of the world's record for height in an aeroplane, should be sent here to operate the machine. Mr. Brookings had a severe fall at the Asbury Park meet last week and has not yet entirely recovered. Mr. Jackson said that he was not in a position to guarantee the attendance of Brookings, but would guarantee that an equally skillful and trained operator would be sent here.

To satisfy the demands of the Fair Association, he has wired the home office of the Wrights, at Dayton, Ohio, asking about Brookings' engagements, and expects an answer this morning, when the deal will probably be closed.

Hoxsey May Come.

Mr. Jackson said last night that he did not see the necessity of having Brookings here, as the Wrights have four or five men equally as well trained, who can and have done everything that is anticipated will be attempted at the Richmond race track. Brookings went up 4,000 feet at Asbury Park last week, and Arch Hoxsey, known as the duke of the aviators, because of his immaculate get-up, both on and off of his car, has done equally as well, while the performance of Walsh, La Chapelle and Crawford show that they are fully capable of handling a Wright car and doing everything that the fair contract guarantees. Brookings, because of his world record for high flying, would cost the fair about $1,000 more, and it is not expected that any attempt would be made here to surpass his former high record, the extra expense, according to Mr. Jackson, would be almost useless.

Hoxsey, who hails from Pasadena, Cal., and presents a boyish appearance, and a smile that would make him a hero on the baseball field, has recently done some "stunts" that for real thrills and interest to the watching crowd surpass the high flying of Brookings. For instance, Hoxsey has insisted that an aviator should be able to alight in safety, even though his motor gave out, a trick which aeroplane makers have shown a tendency to do, often times with fatal consequences.

So at Asbury Park Hoxsey began by practicing his machine on the general principle of a box kite. He worked the trick several times at low altitudes, when no one was by, and last week, to the tremendous excitement and alarm of the crowd gathered at Asbury Park, he deliberately shut off his motor when about 700 feet from the ground. Even among the experienced aviators gathered beneath there was no expectation but of a certain and sure death, when apparently the motor failed to work and the 1,000-pound machine began its sudden fall.

But Hoxsey kept his head, and to the astonishment of all, even of his associates, spread his wings and began to fly like a bird. Diving first one way and then another, ever near the ground, he alighted with fifty feet of wire, and started, without damage either to himself or his machine.

Will Guarantee to Make Good.

"Any man we send here will do good work," said Mr. Jackson last night. "We are not coming here to make high flights, or disturb established world records, made in the presence of officials of the Aero Club of America, with official timekeepers. But we are prepared to give interesting exhibitions of what a Wright aeroplane, capably driven, can do. Hoxsey filled the first contract the Wrights ever made with a State Fair, out in North Carolina, in 1917, when he sold the roller coaster unit, made his short turns, gave the dives and dips that interest and thrill the spectators, and besides made a 3,000 feet record. I don't think they need to get Brookings here for extra expense, when they can get a man who can do everything that the people can see and understand for less money."

JEWELER SHOT HIMSELF IN LEG BY ACCIDENT

While unbreaching a rifle yesterday morning the weapon was accidentally discharged, and J. C. Goodwin, a Jeweler, of 1008 North First Street, shot himself through the left leg, inflicting a painful wound.

The bullet was extracted by Ambulance Physician Harnsberger, who said that the wound is serious, but not dangerous.

CREDIT MEN END SESSION TO-DAY

Election of Officers and Selection of Next Convention City Still on Docket.

With the election of officers and the selection of the next place of meeting, the business sessions of the fifth annual convention of the National Association of Mercantile Agencies will be brought to a close in Richmond to-day. To-night at the Jefferson Hotel the delegates and their wives will enjoy a banquet.

The social committees were received at the morning session yesterday. The committees were as follows: Business extension, employment of solicitors for the association at large, admission of trade agencies, uniform stationery, uniformity in production of special reports, uniform competition. The committee on business extension recommended that the association solicit the business of the insurance companies for reports on the qualifications of applicants for risks. This subject is a live one with the members, and was discussed at length at the afternoon session a special committee was appointed to take the matter up with the insurance companies. Another special committee was appointed for the promotion of the mercantile agency business.

The social features of the day consisted of luncheon to the women of the convention at the Jefferson, Mrs. G. Norris Schuman being hostess of the occasion, and an automobile ride over the city, in which all the delegates and their wives took part. Rain interfered to some extent with the automobile ride, and many places of interest could not be visited as had been intended.

Secretary William P. Thompson, of New York, said last night that the convention has been one of the most enjoyable the association has ever had. In addition, it has been the most valuable from a business standpoint. The delegates without exception express themselves as delighted with their entertainment and reception in Richmond.

TIGNOR CONVICTED

Man Who Held Up Motor Car in County Takes an Appeal.

J. A. Tignor, charged with holding up an automobile belonging to J. St. George Bryan on the Brook Road last week, was fined $10 on each of two warrants yesterday by Magistrate Puryear, of Henrico county. Tignor noted an appeal.

In his testimony Tignor stated that he merely wanted the machine to go away so that he would not frighten his horse, and when the driver refused to slow up he drew a revolver and threatened him. Other witnesses, however, testified that the machine was going slowly and that the horse was not at all frightened.

BEVERLY SURRENDERS

Negro Charged with Murder Tired of Dodging Officers.

After eluding the police for more than two months, Harrison Beverly colored, wanted on a charge of murdering David Brooks (colored), walked into the First Police Station last night and surrendered himself.

Beverly was killed Brooks in a fight on Thirty-third and Main Streets, on May 14, as the result of a row over a woman. He then escaped, and has since been hiding. Beverly said he was tired of dodging the officers of the law and made up his mind to come back to Richmond, and stand trial. He said he would rather be in jail at home than free away from home.

Sent to Henrico Court.

After being formally arraigned in the Police Court yesterday morning on the charge of committing a capital offense, Junius Taylor, twenty-five years old, was turned over to the Henrico county authorities by Justice Crutchfield, who noted in jail the meritorious conduct of the prisoner, of 3 Government Road, is the complainant. Taylor denies the charge.

NEW STATUTE HITS CHINAMEN HARD

Laundry Proprietors Must Not Sleep in Their Places of Business.

Chinese laundries in Richmond, as well as elsewhere in the State, are likely to be put out of business unless sufficient funds to consent to blow in against them are forthcoming. Under the new Virginia law, no one may sleep in any public laundry or public wash-house, or in any room adjoining or opening into any such laundry.

John Chinaman has rarely been able to see the point in having a sleeping apartment separate from the building in which he does business. It has always looked like a useless waste of space, and he has not been able to get it. But he will have to change his mode of living now or leave the State.

Besides, John is not always fond of ventilation and drainage—two requirements which are to be enforced under the new act. Local boards of health are charged with the duty of seeing that the law is complied with, and to see also that no person affected with a contagious or infectious disease is allowed to work in a laundry in any capacity.

Provisions of Act.

The text of the law is as follows: "Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Virginia, That the boards of health of the respective cities of Virginia, (where such cities have such boards of health) shall supervise all laundries or public wash-houses within any city in the State of Virginia, and shall not permit the employment, by any public laundry or public wash-house, of any person suffering with an infectious or contagious disease; nor allow any person to sleep in such public laundry or public wash-house, or in any room adjoining or opening into such public laundry or public wash-house, and every room in such laundry or wash-house that is used for the purpose of washing or drying clothes shall be properly ventilated and drained, and shall be used for no purpose other than that specified. The floors of all rooms used for the purpose of washing clothes shall, if required by the board of health, be made of cement or other mineral substance, and shall be arranged so as to be easily drained. A public laundry or public wash-house within the meaning of this section shall be any place within any city of the State of Virginia licensed to conduct a laundry in any of its branches. Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than $50 nor more than $100 for each offense.

"Any person, firm or corporation conducting a public laundry or public wash-house within a distance of a half mile of the city limits of any city of the State of Virginia shall be subject to the provisions of this act.

"Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the washing or drying of clothes in a private residence where no license to do washing is required."

ATKINSON VERDICT READY

Findings of Court-Martial Will Reach Major Wortham To-Day.

Major E. B. Wortham, president of the court-martial which on August 1 tried Sergeant Frank L. Atkinson, of the Howitzers, on a charge of failure to perform his military duties, will reach the city to-day with the findings. The papers will reach Major T. M. Wortham, commander of the Virginia Field Artillery, this morning. After he has examined them and approved or disapproved of the findings, they will go to the Adjutant-General. The name of the verdict has been made public until after it has been passed upon by the Governor.

GOVERNOR MANN FILES DEMURRER

His Attorney, Richard E. Byrd, Says Farmer Declaration Is Not Sufficient in Law.

Richard Evelyn Byrd, Speaker of the House of Delegates, and attorney for Governor William H. Mann, appeared in the Law and Equity Court yesterday morning in the case of John H. Farmer against Governor Mann, an action in assumpsit for damages in the sum of $10,000, and filed the following demurrer:

"John H. Farmer vs. William H. Mann: Action of trespass on case in assumpsit. The defendant comes and says that the declaration is not sufficient in law. William H. Mann, by R. E. Byrd, attorney."

As the court is now in vacation it is not probable that argument on the demurrer will be heard until the first day of the next term, the second Monday in September, when action may be taken at once on the demurrer, or a special day may be set for its hearing in advance of the date to be set for hearing the case on its merits.

Secretary Hardy, from Governor Mann's office, made a complete transcript of the record in the case yesterday for the use of the Governor's attorney, including a copy of the declaration filed on the previous day by Attorney William L. Royall, who represents Mr. Farmer in the proceedings.

FINED FOR ASSAULTING LITTLE HAMILTON IN HENRICO

Eugene Litchfield and John Grubb, young white men, charged with assaulting C. E. Hamilton near Glen Allen, on the public road, last Saturday night, were fined $10 and costs before Magistrate Puryear, of Henrico county, yesterday. The young men pleaded guilty to the charge.

The evidence showed that they attacked Hamilton with the sole idea of administering a thrashing, and that they had no idea of robbery as was reported.
